

THE CONCERN:

The American public's diet is one of the world's worst. Poor digestion and assimilation, and resulting nutritional deficiencies and body chemistry imbalances, are responsible for a vast majority of health problems — further compounded by toxic pollutants present in our environment.

THE SOLUTION:

A scientific testing system to determine nutritional deficiencies, body toxicity and the body's ability to digest and assimilate food followed by a regimen of appropriate nutritional supplements to address each individual's family history, personal health history and individual biochemistry.

We are the first company to create a national program to test for the above conditions and provide individuals with supplements specific to their biochemistry for correcting nutritional imbalances, removing toxins, and assisting the digestive system in assimilating foods.

GOOD NEWS:

Our technology can identify your nutritional requirements through a simple, 24-hour urine analysis. From that analysis, our health professionals will create a supplement program specific to your nutritional needs.

As the human body constantly renews itself, it requires nutrients from our diet or dietary nutritional supplements to successfully repair, rebalance, and regenerate. A person's body has specific nutritional requirements. Satisfying these requirements allows the body to express more energy, vitality, and overall health.

Currently, the $70-billion-a-year vitamin industry is driven largely by ignorance. A population that has come to accept the benefits of preventative medicine is self-diagnosing its needs with no scientific basis and wasting money buying over-the-counter nutritional products that are often questionable in their quality, potency and effectiveness, and designed for the average individual.

The problem is, none of us are average.

A simple, discreet urine analysis will help you understand specific nutritional deficiencies and chemistry imbalances that are common underlying factors to many health conditions.

Why take supplements created for the "Average" person...

...when you can take doctor formulated supplements, created specifically to address your family health history, your personal health history, and your unique biochemical deficiencies and imbalances.

Start to feel measurably better!

THE PROGRAM:

The Test

Contact us, and we will send you a Urine Analysis Kit containing everything you need to submit a specimen, including a self-mailer. Your 24-hour urine analysis is conducted by a team of health professionals in one of the nation's top nutrition and metabolic assessment laboratories. The analysis pinpoints problem areas and identifies what your body needs. After receiving your analysis report, a supplement program specific to you will then be created. In addition, we follow up with you to ensure that you are realizing maximum benefit from your supplement program.

The Software

Developed over 16 years of clinical trials, our software enables lab test results and health history to be entered online to determine the best supplement program for each individual: we provide specific recommendations as to supplements, dosage, rationale and priority of use. This program revolutionizes the nutrition industry. Your customized supplements will be fresher and more comprehensive than over-the-counter products at a comparable price.

The Science

We partner with one of the country's leading clinical nutritionists, Dr. Maile Poulos, who has over 25 years of experience as clinical nutritionist, natural-health educator, and nutritional supplement formulator and manufacturer. Dr. Poulos has treated tens of thousands of patients worldwide and authored several top selling books on nutrition. Find out more about the science supporting our supplement program online.
